Allied Supply Problems

BERLIN AGREEMENT IN SIGHT

Fraternisation Ban May Be Lifted Soon

[Reuter and A.P.]

THE Russian, British and American military governors of Berlin will meet to-morrow to discuss problems of food and fuel supply and administration.

Pending the settlement, the Russians are providing food and fuel for the 1,650,000 citizens of the British and American occupation areas.

Major-General F. L. Parks, Commander of the U.S. area, said last night: "This is a transition period, and I would like to emphasise that there has been no friction between British and Americans on the one side and Russians on the other—no difficulty at all." He predicted that the final result would be "highly satisfactory."

The ban on fraternisation between British troops and German civilians is expected to be lifted soon, according to Reuter. The whole question is under review at present, and in some areas of the British zone of occupation fraternisation is said to be going on despite the ban.

Germany "Stronger Than 1918"

GERMANY in defeat remains a major threat to the peace of the world, Senator Harley M. Kilgore stated in his report, issued yesterday in Washington, of enquiries into the Axis war potential carried out by the Senate's Special Committee to investigate the national defence programme.

"Germany is better prepared now to implement her plot for world conquest than she was at the end of world war one," added the Senator.

The report, the result of the committee's recent visit to the European war theatres and exhaustive enquiries in Washington, called on Congress to watch German disarmament for at least 15 years. It also urged a complete analysis of the records of the German Government and its industrial connections, and for quarterly reports to Congress for the next five years by an Allied Control Council on the progress of steps taken to prevent new German war activity.

The report described Germany's four chief remaining resources as—

1. The world's third strongest industrial economy;
2. A tremendous recuperative power;
3. A world-wide network of economic and political reserves, and a system of commercial relations penetrating the economies of other nations, and
4. A science of aggression perfected by her leading industrialists, militarists and politicians.

The report blamed German industrialists and the Junker class as the main causes of aggression.

"The whole German set-up is the desperate scheme of a determined and skilful group of German leaders who have thoroughly indoctrinated their own people and systematically the rest of the world."—(Reuter.)

Experts Discussing Air Problems

Viscount Swinton, British Minister of Civil Aviation, welcoming delegates to the first meeting of the Commonwealth Air Transport Council, which opened in London yesterday, said their work would be valuable, not only to the Commonwealth and Empire, but to the rest of the world. The agreement which the Council made would be gladly made with other countries, and in so doing they would make the highways of the air the ways of peace and friendship for all nations.

Soldiers Drink With Germans

The ban on fraternisation between British troops and German girls, which has been a constant source of controversy since it was imposed several months ago, is likely to be lifted within a month, states Reuter. The whole question is under discussion "at the highest level" at 21st Army Group H.Q., and a "big decision" is expected soon.

A café in Herford (Westphalia) was packed on Sunday night with British troops and German men and women. The British were seated beside German girls, giving them cigarettes and buying them glasses of weak German beer. They talked, joked, and shook hands at length when they left.

Two military policemen came in. Instead of arresting the British for a breach of the fraternisation order they sat down and had a drink with the Germans themselves.

The latest ruse of the British soldier is to acquire an identification badge of the type worn by displaced persons and put it on a German fraulein.

Hans Mark, of Hanover, who spent six years in Buchenwald for opposing the Nazis, told Reuter:—"I think it is time the Allies, who liberated us from Nazism, realised that Germans who suffered in concentration camps deserve better treatment than the cold shoulder. Thousands of us have suffered at the hands of the Nazis. We can understand unfriendliness towards German people who supported Hitler, but surely the troops should be allowed to shake hands with us, who are your friends."

An A.P. correspondent at 21st Army Group Headquarters says that medical records indicate that Allied troops have become more frequently involved with German girls than with the girls of France and Belgium.

At Hanover a popular lake has been divided between a zone for Germans and one for Allied troops. German girls have taken to darting across the line and tipping soldiers off their diving rafts, racing away before they could be caught.

"Russians Have Been Pleasant"

To-morrow's meeting of the Berlin Council of Military Governors will be between Colonel-General Gobatov (Russia), General L. O. Lyne (Britain), and Major-General Parks (U.S.A.).

General Parks said last night: "What we would like to do here is to establish a city Government that is applicable to the entire capital and which we could gradually build up, so that the city could run itself under supervision by the occupying Governments."

He said that there was no truth in any statement that negotiations with the Russian authorities on the subject of military Government and problems of administration in Berlin had broken down.

"I still think that broadminded co-operation will permit us to run this city as a unit," he said. "I think the occupation of Berlin is progressing very satisfactorily. I have been pleased with the conduct of the troops, pleased with the conduct of civilians. The Russians have been pleasant in every respect.

"I think, perhaps, had I had more experience in dealing with people speaking a foreign tongue, so that I could know how to put something across to them and get their ideas to me, things might have been a little smoother in the first few days."

General Parks added that he thought that the threat of the controversial problems of fraternisation, propaganda, newspapers, food and fuel is now paramount in the capital, could be decided by the Berlin Governors' Council without reference to the "Big Three."

"There is no reason to believe that the Russians want to do anything else than co-operate 100 per cent. in the government of the city." Until the Governors' Council discussed the issues and made decisions, the system introduced by the Russians would continue.

The deadlock of the past few days was never regarded as a "crisis." Marshal Zhukov's decision—applied last Thursday, when the British and Americans were to have taken over the military government of their respective areas—to continue with the administration until agreement was reached, is regarded as the only reasonable and practical course in the circumstances.

Red Army military government officers are, for the present, continuing the administration of the entire city, including the provision of food and fuel for the citizens of the British and American occupation areas.

It was announced last night that a R.A.F. 2nd T.A.F. Typhoon wing, which carried out nearly 15,000 sorties from D-day to VE-day, will be one of the first R.A.F. formations to land in the Berlin area as part of the British control force.

This wing has played an outstanding rôle in every phase of the invasion of Europe, from the ceaseless pounding of German radar stations between Cap Gris Nez and Cap de la Hague, preceding the Normandy landings, to the final onslaught on shipping steaming north from Kiel, which prevented a large-scale withdrawal of German troops to Norway.

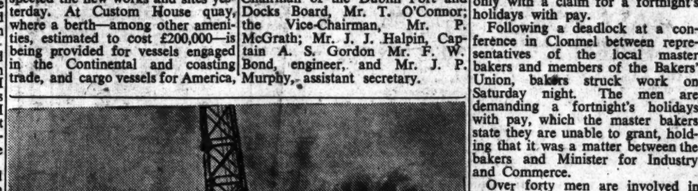
The first French occupation troops have entered the Austrian town of Innsbruck, formerly occupied by the Americans, Luxembourg Radio reported yesterday.

France will occupy the whole of the Austrian provinces of Vorarlberg and Tyrol, the radio said.

Irish Ships on Their Way Home

The Irish Spruce (3,000 tons), of Irish Shipping Ltd., is due in Cork on Wednesday; the Irish Ash (2,500 tons), in Limerick on Friday, and the Irish Plane (5,500) tons, in Dublin in about a week's time. All are coming from Montreal.

The British motor vessel, Saint Angus, which discharged a cargo of coke from Glasgow at Rosslare yesterday, was the first British vessel seen in the port since the end of the war.



Dublin's £2,000,000 Port Improvement

WORKS which are estimated to cost about £2,000,000 are under way at the port of Dublin.

They include construction work at Custom House quay, new transit sheds, and a new ocean pier at Alexandra wharf for the accommodation of deep-draught vessels.

The Port and Docks Board hope to build at a later date a second graving dock, in view of the fact that the oil refinery is expected to develop on a big scale, and that the Government will, in all probability, purchase "Victory" and "Liberty" ships.

An official of the Board stated yesterday that the dock would cost a sum in the neighbourhood of £1,000,000. In the carrying out of work of the kind Government aid would be necessary, for it would not be an economic proposition for the Board to float a loan itself.

An Irish Times reporter accompanied members of the Board and Lieut.-Commander A. J. O'Brien-Twohig, Harbour Master, who inspected the new works and sites yesterday. At Custom House quay, where a berth—among other amenities, estimated to cost £200,000—is being provided for vessels engaged in the Continental and coasting trade, and cargo vessels for America, workmen were operating a crane-equipped iron barge, placing 50-feet steel piles in position, and, by means of a 2½ tons steam-hammer, driving the piles into the foundations of a new 575-feet wall. Here the necessary dam is being constructed to stem the flow of water while the work of erecting the wall proceeds.

At Alexandra Quay the first 220 feet of wall has been built; 440 more feet will follow, until eventually the necessary 1,200 feet has been constructed.

At the North Wall extension work is proceeding rapidly on the building of two rows of transit sheds at an estimated cost of about £80,000. The new sheds will occupy 11,000 square yards, as against 3,000 formerly.

The aim of the Port and Docks Board is to complete their plans before the normal flow of shipping begins. An official said that it would not be possible satisfactorily to tackle these works in a pre-war busy port.

The inspection party included the Chairman of the Dublin Port and Docks Board, Mr. T. O'Connor; the Vice-Chairman, Mr. P. McGrath; Mr. J. J. Halpin, Captain A. S. Gordon Mr. F. W. Bond, engineer, and Mr. J. P. Murphy, assistant secretary.

THE 49,000-ton German luxury liner Europa will be at sea in three months' time in the service of the Allies, the Allied Press Service in Germany stated yesterday. Her last voyage—from New York to Bremerhaven—was in 1939. Luxembourg Radio stated recently that she would sail under the American flag.

BUTCHERS AND BAKERS ON STRIKE

THERE were sufficient meat shops open in Dublin yesterday to meet all requirements.

Apart from the master victuallers' supply dépôts, many of the shops were run by private enterprise, by the Workers' Union of Ireland, and by butchers who have apparently broken away from the Victuallers Association.

A suggestion that the master victuallers intended to contest the issue of the legality of picketing their shops elicited the comment from a union official that the master victuallers, although they were running the supply dépôts under new conditions, were parties to the dispute, which was concerned only with a claim for a fortnight's holidays with pay.

Following a deadlock at a conference in Clonmel between representatives of the local master bakers and members of the Bakers' Union, bakers struck work on Saturday night. The men are demanding a fortnight's holidays with pay, which the master bakers state they are unable to grant, holding that it was a matter between the bakers and Minister for Industry and Commerce.

Over forty men are involved in the strike, which also embraces Cahir.

A late-minute effort by Dean Byrne, P.P., Clonmel, to get the men to agree to a postponement, pending consultation with the master bakers, failed.

Clonmel yesterday had to depend for its bread supplies on two shops which are not involved in the strike.

Muslims Want Assurances

Two more letters have been exchanged between Lord Wavell and Mr. Mohammed Ali Jinnah, President of the Muslim League. The contents of neither has been revealed, but it is unofficially reported by Reuter that the League's reply to the Viceroy indicates that they are unwilling to submit a list of nominations for the new Indian Government without an assurance that the League will nominate all the Muslim Ministers.

Mr. Jinnah said nothing which would tend to confirm the reports of the Working Committee's refusal when he replied to an address presented by a local branch of the Muslim League in Simla yesterday, but he did insist on the League's ultimate objective of a separate State of the Moslem Provinces.

"We are one nation with a definite goal—Pakistan," he said, "and in this sub-Continent, where we have our national home, we are determined to establish our national spirit.

"We are not going into anything which will in any way infringe upon the fundamentals we have laid down before. We are in this Conference more or less as advisers, and in order that our advice might be more considered we have requested the services of the Muslim League Working Committee. But we do not forget that we are only advisers. When the complete scheme emerges it cannot be binding upon the All-India Muslim League until it has been placed before the League and ratified by our organisation. Therefore, do not have any apprehensions. Nothing on this earth will make me accept any proposals which I think detrimental to Muslim interest, or which I think likely to prejudice or prejudge our goal of Pakistan."

Sir Henry Richardson, the European member of the Simla Conference, in a statement, says that he is not submitting any list of names to the Viceroy. The European community, he said, accepts the statement contained in the Cripps offer of 1942 that the working out of India's new constitutional system is a task which can be carried through only by the Indian peoples themselves.

No Invitation To Eire

No invitation to Eire to join the World Security Organisation in San Francisco has been received by the Government, it was stated officially in Dublin yesterday.

Asked to comment on the cabled report by our special correspondent in San Francisco that Dr. Herbert Vere Evatt had raised the question of Eire's admission to the organisation, the Government Information Bureau stated: "The Government has no official information as to the correctness or otherwise of the Irish Times' report of a statement by Dr. Evatt at San Francisco.

Dr. Evatt is Australian Minister for External Affairs, and Attorney-General.

Effects of Rationing In Britain

"When the Minister of Food tells us that the health of the nation was never better than it is to-day, I just don't believe him," said Mr. A. E. Reeve, Chairman of Stratford (London) magistrates, yesterday, when speaking about food rationing.

"When I see women queueing up I can see a change; their faces are pinched," he added. "Practically the whole nation is suffering. I do not care where you look—people want more food, and when the Ministry of Food says people are all the better for shortages, I say it is all tommy-rot.

"These cannot go to hotels and get two or three lunches a day."

CHURCHILL STAYING NEAR HENDAYE

Truman Leaves For "Big Three" Talks

[Reuter and A.P.]

IT was announced in Washington last night that President Truman left Newport News, Virginia, by ship for Europe on Saturday. He was accompanied by Mr. James F. Byrnes, his new Secretary of State.

A large staff of political and military advisers were on board the ship, on which last-minute conferences are being held prior to the "Big Three" meeting near Berlin.

An unconfirmed report yesterday said that Marshal Stalin had left Moscow.

Mr. Churchill, who is staying at the Chateau de Bordaberry, near Hendaye, rested yesterday, but also devoted some time to painting and playing golf, according to a Spanish News Agency. He received no visitors. The agency added that Mr. Churchill would not be crossing the frontier to visit San Sebastian in Spain, but that Mrs. Churchill would.

The vessel on which President Truman is travelling is in direct touch with the White House by code radio. His departure was general knowledge in Washington over the week-end, but at the request of the White House, and in accordance with censorship instructions, the news remained "off the record" until Drew Pearson, the U.S. commentator, disclosed it in his broadcast on Sunday night.

The President's exact route and the time of his arrival in Europe cannot yet be published, but it can be stated authoritatively that the "Big Three" meeting will take place in the Potsdam area of Berlin.

It can be stated authoritatively that President Truman will visit Britain on his way back from the "Big Three" meeting. Visits to a number of other European countries are also believed to have been planned, and the President is expected to be away well over a month.

The delegation accompanying President Truman was one of the largest ever to leave the United States for any conference since the beginning of the war.

Reuter's Special Correspondent in Washington states:—Four main subjects will dominate the agenda in the coming conversations between Mr. Churchill, Marshal Stalin and President Truman and their advisers.

These subjects are:—

(1) The general political and economic problems of the liberated areas and of the former Axis satellites with a view to helping their peoples to solve their problems through "democratic processes." This includes the subject of the inter-Allied control of Germany;
(2) Many problems in connection with the actual peace settlement both in Europe and beyond, and plans for a peace conference;
(3) The results of Stalin's recent conversations with Mr. T. V. Soong, the Chinese Prime Minister, which are being alluded to in Washington as the "Chinese Yalta";
(4) The question of reparations to be paid by Germany to the various Allied countries, and plans for the complete and final destruction of her military power.

Both Mr. Churchill and President Truman are reported to have plans ready for the Allied control of both the Reich and its capital.

Son of Cabinet Minister on Treason Charge

A charge under the Treason Act of 1351 was brought against John Amery, 33 years old son of Mr. L. S. Amery, British Secretary for India, when he appeared in a crowded court at Bow street, London, yesterday. After proceedings lasting less than five minutes he was remanded until Monday, July 30th.

The charge was that between June 22nd, 1941, and April 25th, 1945, being a person owing allegiance to the King, adhered to the King's enemies elsewhere than in the King's realm—to wit, in the German and Italian realms, and in those parts of the continent of Europe then occupied or controlled by the King's enemies, contrary to the Treason Act, 1351.

Detective-Inspector Jones, who was the only witness called, said, in reply to Mr. Jackson, that on Saturday, July 7th, at 7.50 p.m., he saw the defendant, John Amery, on his arrival in England by air. He was then under military escort. "I told him that I was a police officer and that I was arresting him and taking him to Bow Street Police Station. I told him he would be charged with having committed high treason. At 4.45 p.m. the same day he was formerly charged, cautioned, and the charge read over to him."

Applying for a longer remand than normally, Mr. R. L. Jackson, for the Director of Public Prosecutions, said one reason was that the next session at the Central Criminal Court started the following week, and Mr. Byrne, who would appear in the case for the Crown, was there occupied with another similar case. Another reason was that most of a considerable number of witnesses had to come from different parts of the continent.

Mr. Harold McKenna, the magistrate, commented: "Those are not the reasons which have been given wide publicity elsewhere."

Mr. Lickfold, who appeared for Amery, said the date suggested for the remand would suit him very well.

Army Officer Found Guilty of Larceny

Judge O'Connor, at Cork Circuit Court yesterday, imposed a suspensory sentence of twelve months on Gerald Heaphy, garage foreman, Charleville, and Sean O'Halloran, army captain, Cork, who had been found guilty of conspiring to steal, and the larceny of, fifty gallons of petrol. They were bound over for three years.

The judge said that O'Halloran, was the first army officer who had ever been before him for stealing goods entrusted to him by the Government. It was his first offence and he would get the benefit of the probation of offenders act. "You have not only ruined yourself, but have blotted the fair name of the army of which the country is so proud," said the judge.

German Secret Plane Found

One Nazi warplane which the Allies are pleased they did not see in action has propellors in the nose and tail. Americans have found about 40 of these aircraft, some in a flyable condition. They were built by Dornier, and have a tricycle landing gear, and were apparently nearing the production stage necessary for combat.

Brazilian Cruiser Lost

A 3,150 ton British-built cruiser of the Brazilian Navy, the Bahia, was lost following an explosion in mid-Atlantic yesterday. The cause of the explosion is not yet known.

Her total complement was 383 officers and men, and although a number are known to have been rescued, the death roll is feared to be heavy.

Brazilian and North American naval units, says Associated Press, are still searching for survivors.

Many Arrests Made

Mass arrests of German business men, financiers, industrial leaders and bankers have been carried out throughout Bavaria—in the U.S. occupation zone—during the past few days.

Many of the arrested men were associated with firms having widespread British and U.S. connections before the war.

Ammunition Dump Explodes Near Dunkirk

Many casualties are feared to have resulted from the explosion of a large ammunition dépôt near Dunkirk yesterday afternoon, says Reuter, quoting French Radio. Violent explosions followed each other in quick succession, causing a panic among residents of Dunkirk, who have only recently returned to their homes after being refugees from the town when it was in the battle zone.

Explosions were still taking place at a late hour yesterday evening, and wreckage was falling over a wide area, including the port and railway station.

The Jean Bart Barracks were wrecked, and many lives are feared to have been lost. It is known that at least 30 civilians and 80 German prisoners and their guards were working in the barracks, and it is feared that few escaped.

The town last night was covered with a huge pall of smoke.

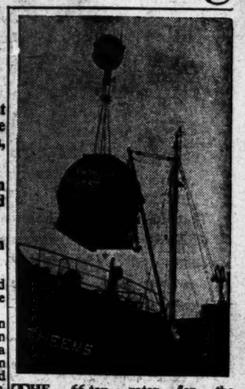
London Poles Arrest Polish Officer

The Polish Press Agency in London announced yesterday that the Polish military authorities placed under arrest on Saturday Captain Waclaw Kostecki, a lecturer at the Polish training centre at Catterick Camp.

Captain Kostecki intended to travel to London to discuss repatriation matters on behalf of himself and his colleagues with the Polish representatives nominated by the Polish Government of National Unity. He was placed under arrest at his lodgings. An inspecting officer, entering his room, said that he should be hanged.

Captain Kostecki was released yesterday.

The Netherlands Government, says Reuter, has recognised the Polish Government of National Unity.



THE 66-ton rotor for the generator at the hydro-electric scheme at Poulaphouca arrived at the North Wall, Dublin, yesterday in the London steamer Theems. The turbine was lifted from the ship to a trailer by the port's 100-ton crane. It was drawn to a place outside the city by an E.S.B. trailer, and the journey will be completed to-day.

National Referendum For France

THE French nation is to elect, by universal suffrage, a national constituent assembly which will draw up a new constitution to be submitted to a national referendum, says Reuter.

This was announced at the end of yesterday's special Cabinet meeting, called to discuss General de Gaulle's proposals for constitutional reform. The meeting lasted 6 hours, and was the longest to be held by the present Cabinet.

A communiqué stated:—"The Cabinet, after a thorough discussion, unanimously adopted a bill relating to the election of a constituent assembly and to the provisional organisation of the public powers. The text on which the opinion of the consultative assembly will shortly be asked, provides that a national constituent assembly shall be elected by universal suffrage. This, in its turn, will elect the president of the provisional Government.

"Provisional arrangements are provided for to deal with the organisation of the public powers until the future constitution comes into force.

"The Constitution established by the National Assembly is to be submitted for the approval of the country by means of a referendum, and, in the event of the nation rejecting it, the elected National Assembly shall remain the Chamber of Deputies and the election of a Senate, in conformity with the Constitution of 1875, will then follow."

The elections will take place on September 23rd for the first polling and on September 30th for the ballot, and the referendum on the bill relating to the election of the Constituent Assembly will be submitted to the country on October 14th. On the same day general elections will be held by universal suffrage.

C.I.U. Call for Reorganisation

The Provisional Committee of the Congress of Irish Unions, at a meeting in Dublin during the week-end, adopted a declaration noting with satisfaction the statement of the Minister for Industry and Commerce in the Dáil on June 27th, that the Government would welcome the re-establishment of one central organisation of Irish trade unionism and the voluntary withdrawal of British trade unions from this country. The declaration called upon the Irish members of the unions concerned to take the steps necessary for their re-organisation in trade unions whose executive authorities and headquarters are in Ireland.

The annual meeting of delegates will be held in Killarney at the end of this month.

MacArthur Expects Pacific War to End Next Year

AIR VICE-MARSHAL H. V. SATTERLY, who returned to England by air yesterday from consultations with General MacArthur in the Philippine Islands, told the Press Association that the general thought that "judged from the military standpoint" the war in the Far East would be over towards the end of next year.

He added that MacArthur fully appreciated "the desirability of full British and American co-operation against the Japanese."

Netherlands Indies forces have made two amphibious landings on the north shore of Balik Papan Bay, in south-east Borneo, says yesterday's communiqué from General MacArthur's H.Q.

Between 500 and 550 Super-Fortresses dropped 3,500 tons of fire bombs and explosives on five Honshu cities yesterday, it was announced by the 20th U.S. Air Force. The bombers, which flew from bases in the Marianas, carried out their mission under cover of darkness.

Allied submarine packs are hunting Japanese shipping close to the Japanese mainland as part of a campaign aimed at the complete blockade of the home islands, Tokyo reports indicated yesterday.

The blockade, combined with air bombardment, will precede invasion, said the Japanese News Agency, which forecast that the battle of Japan will be fought on the Island of Honshu, biggest of the home group, on which Tokyo lies. The Allies had sent considerable numbers of submarines to the southern areas of the China Sea and the waters near the home islands, the Agency added.

Super-Fortresses had also mined Japan's principal harbours as part of the blockade strategy. Another Japanese News Agency report said that some 200 Allied transports are massed off Okinawa, now being rapidly converted into a vast air base for intensified raids on the Japanese mainland, only 350 miles away.

The first 41 incendiary raids by Super-Fortresses on the Japanese mainland virtually laid 30 cities in ashes, according to the latest figures issued in Guam. The total area destroyed is estimated at 130.3 square miles.

A bill for the total exclusion of the Japanese from the islands was passed by the Philippines Congress yesterday. Members said that the Japanese behaved so badly during the occupation that they were not entitled to admission to the country again.

The American authorities in Manila have disclosed that six Japanese and a Filipino were hanged early in June after they had filtered through the American lines in an effort to assassinate General MacArthur. They and several other Japanese were captured by the Army Counter-Intelligence Corps as they were entering Manila. They told their captors that they had been trained in a school for spies in North-Eastern Rizal Province after the American forces had landed on Luzon.

U.S. Representative Accuses Britain

Mr. Leonard Allen, Democratic Party representative for Louisiana, speaking in the U.S. Congress yesterday, accused Britain of not fulfilling her full rôle, as she had pledged, in the Pacific war.

"The American people should demand that Britain should do her part. Britain has made all sorts of promises about helping out in the Japanese war, but I have looked in vain to find where a single British soldier has landed in that theatre," he said.

Mr. Allen disclosed, however, that General George Marshall, U.S. Chief of Staff, questioned recently in the House of Representatives Appropriations Committee about Britain's part in the Pacific war, "assured us that England is anxious to do her part."

Eclipse Not Seen in Dublin

A partial eclipse of the sun started at 1.33 p.m. yesterday and lasted for two and a half hours. Owing to cloudy skies, the eclipse was invisible in Dublin.

In Western Canada ideally favourable weather made perfect observation of the eclipse possible.

All over the British Isles, from the North of Scotland to the beaches of the South coast, people had at least a moment's view of the eclipse. In the Shetland Islands the afternoon became as dull as night and much cooler, but further south the eerie chilliness, which in the Middle Ages filled the less educated with dread and foreboding at such times, was markedly absent.

Workaday London, starved of excitement since polling day, went into the streets and on to the roofs of office-buildings, and was rewarded by several splendid glimpses of the moon's black shadow moving across the face of the sun.

Over Britain, the sun was never more than partially obscured, for the eclipse was only total along a belt passing across Greenland to Russia.

A perfect view of the eclipse was obtained in South-East Wexford at 2.50; over 60 per cent. of the sun was obscured.

Stalin's Desire for Co-operation

Dr. Hewlett Johnson, the Dean of Canterbury, who is on a visit to Moscow, told Reuter's correspondent yesterday of his 50-minute fireside chat in the Kremlin with Marshal Stalin, at which the Soviet leader expressed his urgent desire to keep firm the Anglo-Soviet alliance.

Stalin said: "It was easy to keep together when we were fighting side by side against the might of Germany; but the Germans are beaten now, and it is less easy when the tension is gone to avoid friction.

"We want to do it. We want to keep firm the union, not only in words, but in deeds. . . . If your politicians will it, we will do it."

Dr. Hewlett Johnson said he found Stalin likeable and charming, and "just the kind of man with whom I could chat for hours over a friendly smoke by the fireside."

Pope's Envoy Returning.—Monsignor David Mathew, auxiliary to the Archbishop of Westminster, has completed a mission for the Pope in Ethiopia, and will leave Rome to-day for London.—(A.P.)

"A Traitor Must Be Found Hanging"

Joachim Goltz, who said he was an S.S. man at 16 and had been a front line soldier in Russia and France, demonstrated before the German P.O.W. court-martial in London yesterday how he pulled the noose tight round the neck of Wolfgang Rostery, the fellow-prisoner of war whom he and six others—an eighth has been acquitted—are accused of murdering at a camp in Scotland.

When Goltz was asked by the Deputy Judge-Advocate to show exactly how he pulled the rope, another of the accused, Josef Mertens, jumped from his seat and lay on the floor in front of the President. Goltz knelt on Mertens' back and went through the motions of pulling the rope.

Mertens and Goltz declared that Rostery was a traitor. When they were asked why they should want to hang a dead man, they replied: "A traitor must be found hanging."

The hearing was adjourned until to-day.

Chinese Politics

Dr. T. Z. Koo, adviser to the Chinese Delegation at the San Francisco Conference, told the Antioch College Peace Institute, says an A.P. correspondent, that there could be no coalition between the Central Government and the Communists in China unless the Communists agreed to abandon their separate Government and incorporate their divisions in the National army.

Neither Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalists nor the Communists represented China. "All China's political parties together amount to less than one per cent. of the population."

40 PACES FROM O'CONNELL BRIDGE

SERVICE BY NEARCO —4,600 GNS.!

A WORLD record for a service by a thoroughbred stallion was established at Newmarket yesterday, when Mr. F. Armstrong, the Middleham trainer, on behalf of H.H. Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda, secured a 1946 service by Nearco at 4,600 guineas.

The sale was one of six nominations to leading stallions offered at Newmarket Bloodstock Sales for the benefit of the Bloodstock Industry Fund of the Veterinary Educational Trust. The previous record for a single service was 1,800 guineas, paid last year for the National Stud stallion, Big Game.

VALUED AT £120,000

Nearco, the sire of this year's Derby winner, Dante, won the Grand Prix de Paris in 1938, and has been valued at £120,000. Mr. Martin Benson bought him for £60,000, and in 1941 Nearco was syndicated at £62,000 —in 40 shares of £1,550 each.

Advertisements have appeared regularly in the Racing Calendar offering substantial premiums for Nearco nominations, and one share was sold recently for £2,625.

Bidding through his trainer, F. Armstrong, the Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda, in the uniform of a Lieut.-Col. in his State Army, and puffing at a cigar, startled breeders by his record bid. He entered the bidding soon after it had started at 300 gns., and in little more than a minute he had silenced the opposition.

Many of the most prominent breeders in Great Britain and Ireland nodded a bid or two, but they soon shook their heads and retired from the ringside as their offers were exceeded.

The only real opposition came from Mr. Michael Collins, who manages the horses of the wealthy Irishman, Mr. Joseph McGrath. He stayed on determinedly, but had to give way to the persistence of the Maharaja.

Nominations to five other stallions were sold for the same fund, but the best price was a modest 200 gns. for a service by Gold Bridge, paid by Mr. J. Wilson. The other nominations sold as follows:—

Full Bloom, 170 gns., to Major W. Boynton.
Fairhaven, 100 gns., to Mr. D. T. Farmiloe.
Brunel, 75 gns., to Mr. F. W. Dennis.
Baman, 70 gns., to Mr. S. Hanley.

The Maharaja was a big buyer at the sales. Among the lots which attracted him was Orlena, a three-year-old filly by Hyperion out of Believa. She is a sister to Radiotherapy, who made a winning début this season by beating Woodwind, another good colt, in a canter. She is on the small side, but is full of quality. She was knocked down at 4,500 gns.

The Maharaja also bought, for 1,850 gns., a good-looking three-year-old filly by Bois Roussel out of Ithurstaway, who was taken out of training because of a foot injury. Another big purchase by him was the two-year-old colt, Ambush, for 2,100 gns.

The best of the later lots was Felwort, a yearling filly by Felstead out of Jacaranda, sent up by Mrs. D. Follett. She was purchased for 3,600 gns. by Mr. E. Pilcher.

During the eight hours of the sale 140 horses changed hands for 55,365 gns., an average price of 396 gns.

Irish-bred Winners in England

THERE were four Irish-bred winners—two at Ascot and two at Pontefract—in England on Saturday. Here is a list of them:—

WILD WAVE, a five-year-old horse by Beresford—Portree, by Stefan the Great. Bred at the Knockany Stud, he is a brother to the Numthorpe Stakes winner, Portia; Hyndford Bridge, who ran second in the 1,000 Guineas, and three other winners. Portree won two races, and traces to the famous St. Simon mare, Mrs. Butterwick. This is the No. 8 family. Wild Wave won twice as a two-year-old. Since then he had been placed once in several outings.

PORT VISTA, a two-year-old colt by Panorama—Outport by Portlaw. He was also bred at the Knockany Stud, and at Newmarket last year cost his trainer, Mr. G. Todd, 430 gns. His third dam, Lady Buzzer, threw eight winners, among them Supertower, Bomble, Scotland and Buzz Fuzz, the dam of Mustang. Port Vista was formerly named Mr. Smart.

WINNER OF FOUR RACES

ERMON, a three-year-old colt by Pharamond—Lay Sister by Abbots Trace. Bred at the Fort Union Stud, he was one of nine yearlings sold privately by Lord Adare to Mr. C. Ray. His dam was a half-sister to two moderate winners, and she herself produced four other winners. Sermon has developed into a popular and very fast colt in the North of England. In all, he has won four races.

SUNSHINE MISS, a two-year-old filly by Furroh Styar—Sunshine Lass by Beresford. Sunshine Lass, a member of the No. 5 family, won at two and three years old. She traces to the Polymelus mare, Princess Dorrie, who won the 1,000 Guineas, and the Oaks, and bred three winners, including the Red Rose Stakes winner, Queen of Jest. The produce of the next dam, Doris, won between them 32 races worth close on £40,000. The chief contributor was Sunstar. Sunshine Miss, who finished second in her only other race, was sent to Newmarket last year by the Turvey House and Batsworth Studs, and sold to Mr. Davey for 320 gns.

The following seven Irish-bred horses were also placed in England on Saturday:—

KILDANGAN (2-y.-o. filly by Panorama—The Zenith by Transcendent).
TEHRAN (4-y.-o. colt by Bois Roussel—Stafarella by Solario).
MEHRALI (6-y.-o. horse by Mahmoud—Una by Tetratema).
ELYSIUM (3-y.-o. colt by Panorama—Gold Ensign by Owen Rowley).
TROUT STREAM (2-y.-o colt by Rosewell —Avon Valley by Stratford).
RIVER (3-y.-o. colt by Fair Trial—Scarlet River by Upavon).

COOMBE'S BRILLIANT RECOVERY

MUCH the best match yesterday in the Irish close tennis championships at Fitzwilliam was that in which D. C. Coombe beat R. J. McCabe. The local youngster, who holds the junior championship, led 5-0 in the final set, but Coombe, using every variety of shot on a rather slippery surface, made a great recovery to come through at 12-10.

On his way to 5-all, he saved three match points, one of them with an acrobatic volley.

AN ENTERPRISING COUNTRY CLUB

Last season the Kilkenny County and City Club staged a junior tournament, in which many of the best young players in Dublin took part, and it proved an outstanding success. This season the junior week, which starts next Monday, should be just as successful, and the club will follow this up with the annual senior open tournament, the following week.

For the latter event, Major Dermot McCalmont has presented a cup for the men's handicap singles.

The Kilkenny Club is reaping the reward of enterprise. Three years ago the total membership was 25; now there are over 80 senior playing members and nearly 100 juniors.

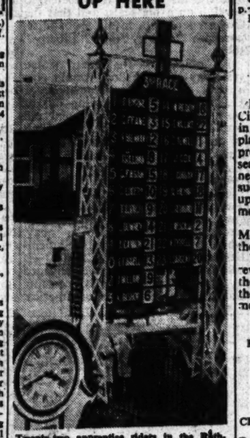
NO CHALKING UP HERE



Twenty-two apprentice riders in the Rathfarnham Plate at Phoenix Park on Saturday had the duty of seeing their own horses played like this, instead of being chalked on the number board as formerly. Mr. Harry Peard, enterprising managing director of Hyson Four Point Chalk, believed in doing things properly. A sheaf of pencils was given to all trainers who had horses declared for the opposition race brought back the names of the riders, and three painters were employed to prepare the name-plates.

Extensive Business in Dublin Market

NOT for a long time have dealings on the Dublin Stock Exchange been on such an extensive scale as they were yesterday.

Irish securities were in keen demand, and a number of strong features developed.

British Industrials, too, claimed a lot of attention, but values inclined to ease towards the close.

Railway issues were again in the limelight. Coras Iompair Common soared three points to 79. Great Northern Ord. advanced to 27, and the Pref. to 45½.

J. G. Mooney Ord. registered a further gain of 5s. at 90s. Draperies also enjoyed support, and Todd Burns issues were particularly favoured. The Ord. strengthened 2s. 6d. to 19s. 6d., and the Deb. closed 1s. higher at 102s. 6d. There was a good inquiry for Alex. Thom issues, and the Ord. advanced 1s. to 38s. 6d. The Pref. improved to 27s. 6d., and the Deb. jumped 2½ to 102. Irish C.S. Buildings spurted two points to 76.

Busy conditions prevailed among Home Government Funds. Bank of Ireland stock rose to 370½. Guinness units maintained their recent strength

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Monday.—The Stock Exchange opened firm and moderately active. While scattered issues exhibited mild strength, many of the leaders were unable to attract support. Some of the bidding was based on the idea that the list has been oversold during the past fortnight's relapse. Advances were in the majority towards mid-day.

American Telephone led a selective recovery in the afternoon, advancing more than 5 points to an eight-year peak. The market closed firm.

The turnover of 800,000 shares comprised 869 issues, of which 503 advanced and 190 declined.—(Reuter.)

London Operators More Cautious

FROM OUR LONDON FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

IT was a day of second thoughts in the Stock Markets yesterday. Many operators, as a result of week-end reflection, were inclined to hedge against the general election result. Demand fell off, while those who purchased rather freely during the upward movement last week were inclined to consolidate their positions. That applied particularly to the popular Industrials. British Funds showed little change, but Rails turned slightly easier.

Oils were inactive, but Rubbers met with a small speculative demand around previous prices. Business in the Mining section was highly selective.

NEW ISSUE PROTEST

Jobbers in the shares of the John Lewis group of companies yesterday took the almost unprecedented step of voluntarily suspending dealings in the shares of all companies in this group as a protest against the terms of the new share issue of Suburban and Provincial Stores.

In the offer of 500,000 Ordinary shares of 2/- each in Suburban and Provincial Stores to holders of existing 1d. Ordinary shares in the proportion of one new Ordinary 2/- share for each six 1d. Ordinary shares now held fractions of shares are to be ignored.

It is held by the market that, as there are about 6,000 holders, mostly small, the terms are unfair, as the ignoring of fractions will mean the withholding by the company of a large proportion of those offered to shareholders among the public. John Lewis and Co., which controls Suburban and Provincial Stores, holds 89 p.c. of the capital.

G.E.C. PROSPECTS

Interest is turning to the £1 stock units of the General Electric Co., Ltd., in view of the dividend announcement to be made this week. The company does not pay interim dividends, but makes its distribution in one sum after the close of the financial year. For the past four years it has been 17½ p.c., in the form of a dividend of 10 p.c. and a bonus of 7½ p.c. That followed three years in which payment was at the rate of 10 p.c., plus bonus of 10 p.c.

The possibility of the return to the 10 p.c. bonus level is always there, although it is not expected. The 17½ p.c. distribution represents 35s. 6d. on the unit gross; or, less tax, at 10s. in the pound, 1s. 9d. per unit. This is now in the price of the stock at 98s. 6d. and, if deducted, the stock gives a return of just over 4 p.c. A feature of

REPORTED "MARKET" IN DANCE TICKETS

Where can I get a ticket for the military tattoo dance? This question has been asked all over Dublin since the full quota of 5,000 tickets was sold out many weeks ago. Now it is rumoured that there is a flourishing "black market" in tickets; that large numbers have been cornered and are being sold at prices ranging up to £3 each.

Army officers connected with the dance arrangements agreed yesterday that the rumours were circulating, but said that there was absolutely no evidence for them.

A member of the Army Benevolent Fund Dance Committee said that the matter had been discussed at recent meetings, and that the general opinion of the committee was that, if tickets are changing hands at the moment at more than £1 1s. (the correct price), they are not being sold in any great numbers. About 80 per cent. of the tickets were sold to persons well known to members of the committee; none went in large blocks. In the early days tickets were sold in shops for a short time, but only about 200 can be accounted for in these sales.

ALLEGED ROBBERY

The hearing was opened in the Dublin Circuit Criminal Court, yesterday, and adjourned until to-day, of a case in which Neel William Talbot, Connolly avenue, Navan, and Paul Poynton, Parnell street, were charged with breaking and entering the pay office of the former G.S.R. at Inchicore with intent to commit a felony, and with the robbery, in December, 1942, of about £130 from Patrick and Maria C. O'Loughlin, 192, Upper Drumcondra road, Dublin. Both men pleaded not guilty.

The principal witness for the State at yesterday's hearing was William Wakefield, who is undergoing a sentence of four years' penal servitude for his part in the offences. He described in detail meetings with Poynton, Talbot, and Detective-Officer Sherlock prior to the Drumcondra robbery, and said that while the two accused men were in O'Loughlin's house with him Sherlock was standing outside keeping watch at the corner of Griffith avenue.

SENTENCE INCREASED

Stealing from vegetable plots was a dirty, mean, low-down, contemptible thing, said Judge Shannon in Dublin Circuit Court, yesterday, when he affirmed a decision of the District Court convicting Martin Long (30), single, no fixed address, a native of Co. Galway, of stealing onions from allotments at Blind Alley Cabra, on three occasions. He increased the sentence from one to three months. Another conviction for the alleged stealing of a bicycle against Long was reversed.

ALLEGED BESETTING

The scenes in Moore street, Dublin, on Saturday night last, which arose out of the trade dispute in the butchering business, led to the appearance of seven men in the Dublin District Court yesterday. Four of the men were charged with watching and besetting the premises of Messrs. Plunkett Bros., butchers, Moore street, and three others were charged with using insulting words and behaviour likely to cause a breach of the peace. All seven, for whom Mr. C. S. W. Boyle, solicitor, appeared, were remanded on bail until to-morrow.

SOCIAL SECURITY

The demand for an Irish scheme of social security, comparable with the British "Beveridge plan," has not been silenced by the Government's chilly reception of Dr. Dignan's proposals. On the contrary, it has been intensified. "Social security" now forms part of the programme of the two rival groups of unions—the Trades Union Congress and the Congress of Irish Unions—and of their parliamentary counterparts, the Labour Party and the National Labour Party. In addition, approval of the Bishop's scheme, or of a variant of it, has been voiced by a substantial number of local bodies, by prominent clergymen and by a growing volume of private opinion. This is strong advocacy, and the Government will do well not to underestimate it. For ourselves, we think that Mr. Lemass's speech before the Cork Chamber of Commerce last March was as clear and forceful a statement of the obstacles to such a plan as could be desired. It will not be amiss to refresh our readers' memories on the subject. Mr. Lemass, in effect, pointed out that the British plan of social insurance was conditional on the success of another "Beveridge plan"—that of "full employment." If employment should fall below a certain level, or should be excessively fitful, the dependent scheme of social insurance would be bound to break down, or to become impracticably expensive. Full employment demands a degree of "regimentation," which, while it might be possible in an industrial country, would be vastly more difficult and dangerous in an agricultural country like Ireland. This argument is convincing—we could only wish that all of the Government's arguments against progressive schemes were equally convincing—yet it does not seem to have convinced. The fact of the matter is that Ireland is still a great deal closer to Great Britain, in spirit as in geography, than many people care to admit. The Irish worker does not resent the fact that social conditions in, say, New Zealand, are far higher than in Ireland; he seldom or never meets a New Zealander, and knows little or nothing of the Dominion's way of life. He knows a great deal, however, about the social conditions, present and projected, of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. He meets dozens of people from "the other side," and learns what they expect. It is hardly surprising if he draws invidious comparisons.

The danger of any serious lag of Ireland's social services behind Great Britain's is evident. It means that emigration will be encouraged, when the national welfare, if not the national existence, requires that it shall be checked. We have no doubt that this danger is before the Government's eyes by night and day. The unhappy position is that, whereas by all logic Ireland cannot afford a "Beveridge" or "Dignan" scheme, she somehow or other must find a means to afford it. Mr. Lemass, assuredly, extended some rays of hope. His plea was that, if the nation should buckle to and should increase its production, social services on a far higher scale than the present would become possible. Can production—that is to say, the national wealth in its true form—be increased? We think so, but the work will require far more energetic leadership than it has enjoyed so far. Even to-day the Government seems to have no clear conception of the future. That is not entirely its own fault; the condition of the world at large is so misty that a small nation may be pardoned if it fails to see its way. It is unpardonable, however, that the reformation of the agricultural industry — which, whatever may happen, is bound to remain the backbone of Irish prosperity—should be so long overdue. It is a scandal that the housing programme should be still in a nebulous stage, with the result that thousands of Irish workmen are uncertain whether their future lies in Ireland or in England. These matters could have been thought out during the war—at least, when it became manifest that the war was not going to touch our shores. As things are now, Ireland must start on a level with the nations which have been fighting for years—in some respects, she is actually behind them. The production of serious plans for agriculture and industry, as we believe, would help to allay the growing clamour for social services on the British level. Intelligent people would realise that the social services would come in time, and in the natural course of events.

Beach and Bath

For an island race, only too familiar with water as a feature of life, the Irish are strangely unskilled in swimming. The trouble is not that enthusiasm, in its crudest form, is lacking; anybody who cares to board a Sandymount bus, or to inspect the queue for a Dun Laoghaire tram, on a warm afternoon can find ample evidence to the contrary. It is true, however, that among these hosts there are many bathers, but comparatively few swimmers. One reason is fairly obvious. For most people swimming is a form of exercise that can be enjoyed, in the Irish climate, only for a few months in the summer. Except for the very hardy enthusiasts, there is no temptation, and very little opportunity, to indulge in it during the winter or the early months of the year. The result of this brief annual craze for total immersion is that drowning accidents are all too common; indeed, Mr. Kevin McCullagh, President of the Leinster and Connaught Branch of the Royal Life-Saving Society, declares that three deaths a week occur from that cause in Ireland. Some precautions, obviously, can be taken. At the better-planned resorts, life guards now are employed to watch over swimmers during the summer season—though even this elementary safety measure is unknown on many of the most popular beaches. Not merely a proper staff of life guards, expert in the technique of life-saving, but a patrol boat could and should be provided at every resort which pretends to cater for holiday-makers. The real safeguard, however, is that the swimmers themselves should be skilled enough to avoid involving themselves and other people in difficulties, in ordinary circumstances. Here the schools can be of great assistance, and the co-operation of the Minister for Education would be extremely valuable. It is useless, however, to expect much progress unless local authorities make an effort to provide swimming facilities, and, in particular, to construct indoor swimming baths which may be used with comfort in all seasons and all weathers. Swimming is one of the best and most beneficial forms of exercise. It would be a real step forward to extend the enjoyment of it, and at the same time to reduce the risks.

The new Bishop of Meath, the Rev. Canon James McCann, is a graduate both of Queen's University, Belfast, and of T.C.D., where he recently attained the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. In addition to his scholastic achievements Canon McCann has had a wide pastoral experience, having served in several parishes in the North as well as in the South. Like the present Primate of All Ireland, he began his ministry at Ballymena. The Bishop of Meath takes precedence after the two Archbishops, and is customarily styled the "Most Reverend," a title which, in the Anglican Communion, is usually reserved for Archbishops or Metropolitans.

He has also been appointed to the Assistant Curacy of Rathfarnham, which will shortly be vacant by reason of the appointment of the Rev. I. W. T. Tickey as Assistant Missioner of the Southern Mission, Ballymacarrett, Belfast.

The Rev. D. R. Tarleton, who is at present a chaplain to His Majesty's Forces, has been appointed to the Incumbency of Kilcoman and Ardcanny, Diocese of Limerick. The Rev. F. H. Garrett was recently licensed by the Bishop of Limerick for the Assistant Curacy of Rathkeale and Nantenan.

CORK STREET HOSPITAL PROTEST MEETING

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As your readers will have noticed from the advertising columns, the protest meeting which we were asked to summon will be held to-night in the Round Room of the Mansion House. Full particulars of the speakers, etc., appear in the advertising columns, and we would like to take this opportunity to urge all those members of the public who have shown such a deep interest in our case, and all those who have the welfare of the hospital at heart, to make it their business to attend.

We know that our case has evoked the most widespread interest, and has filled with anxiety and dismay thousands of our fellow-citizens who are appalled at the grave miscarriage of justice which has taken place.

If anything effective is to be accomplished it will only be when the Minister realises the extent of the public anxiety, and it is urgently important, therefore, that all those who can possibly attend our meeting should make it their business to do so however inconvenient this may be.—Yours, etc.,

A. PEARSON,
GEORGE R. ALLEN,
B. D. D. KINGSMILL MOORE.
DESMOND COLLINS,
J. W. SHACKLETON,
IVAN WEBB,
WM. WIGHAM.

Dublin, July 10th, 1945.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Like a great many other people, I have been taking a somewhat casual interest in this whole matter, but the latest manœuvre of the Parliamentary Secretary has served to whet my appetite for further information.

According to his letter in to-day's Irish Times he proposes to publish as a White Paper his own letter to the Commissioner appointed by him to administer the affairs of the hospital after he had dissolved the Board. I have no doubt that letter will attempt to justify his action, but the public is not concerned with such letter; the point is, does the report of the Inspector who held the Inquiry before the Board was dissolved justify it?

The Parliamentary Secretary also proposes to publish the "full minutes" of evidence taken at the Inquiry held on the 13th November, 1944, and subsequent days. What does this phrase mean? A "minute" is a brief summary of some proceedings. What "full minutes" mean I don't quite know.

I have no concern or interest of any kind in the old Board of the hospital, but, as a member of the public, my interest has now been aroused sufficiently to see if by some means we can get at the truth. In the first place, I ask that the Parliamentary Secretary clarify his undertaking—what does he mean by "full minutes"? In the second place, I say that it is grotesque to publish the evidence, and not the Report of the Inspector who presided over the Inquiry. He heard all the evidence, read all the documents produced, saw all the witnesses, observed their demeanour when giving evidence, noted the effect of cross-examination, heard all the submissions made, and I have no doubt his suggestions and observations influenced Counsel appearing for the various parties in their conduct and handling of their respective cases. His Report can be published at a fraction of the cost of publishing the Parliamentary Secretary's letter and the "full minutes." Only a partisan would refuse to accept his findings as being the impartial conclusions of an independent mind. The public wants to know what his findings were—not what the Parliamentary Secretary wrote to the Commissioner. The behaviour of the Parliamentary Secretary in refusing to publish the Report has created distrust and the suspicion that a very grave injustice has been done, and nothing short of the publication of the Inspector's Report will now allay that belief.—Yours, etc.,

P. J. NUGENT.

Kilteevan, Stillorgan, Co. Dublin.

"CORK STREET MYSTERY."

We wish to correct a statement that appeared in a leading article of last Friday, under the heading "The Cork Street Mystery," that "at the request of his own three representatives, the Minister (for Local Government and Public Health) last year ordered a public inquiry into the affairs of the hospital." Complaints, in fact, were lodged by one of the Minister's representatives, Mr. O Foghludha, and two of his nominees, Messrs. Litton and O'Leary. In so far as our article suggested that Mrs. McKean and Mr. Garett Murphy associated themselves with the charges against the Board, we would like to make it clear that neither of them was party to the complaints, and that Mrs. McKean gave evidence on the Board's behalf.
